Italy-England

Ben Grey is sitting at his computer. He is reading an email.

From: nicoverdi@webitalia.it
Date: 03 January 7:30
To: bengrey@britstream.co.uk
Subject: Italy-England football match, Saturday 24 February.

Hi Ben! My father has two tickets for the big match! But he can't go. He has to work that day. Can you come to Rome and come to the match with me? Please! Ask your Mum and Dad.

Your friend

Nico

P.S. Come on Friday 23!

The Italy-England match! In Rome! thinks Ben. Yes!

Ben loves football. He is thirteen and he lives in London. Ben plays football at school. He plays football with his friends. And he watches football on TV.

Nico is Ben's friend. He is thirteen too. Nico's mother is English and his father is Italian. Sometimes Nico lives in London and comes to Ben's school. Sometimes he lives in Rome. He speaks English and Italian. He loves football too.

Ben runs to the kitchen. His mother and father are eating their breakfast.

'Mum! Dad!' Ben shouts. 'Can I go to Rome?'

'What? Rome?' his mother says.

'Nico has tickets for the Italy-England match! Please!'

'No, Ben,' she answers. 'You have to go to school.'

'The match is on the twenty-fourth of February. That's in the school holidays,' Ben says. 'Can I go?'

Mrs Grey looks at Mr Grey. Mr Grey looks at Mrs Grey. They are thinking. Ben watches their faces.

'Please?' says Ben.

'Yes,' Ben's father answers. 'You can go.'

'But Ben, you have to buy your plane ticket,' says Ben's mother. 'You can work in the house and in the garden.'

'Okay,' Ben says. 'Thanks, Mum. Thanks, Dad.'

On 23 February, Ben's mother and father take him to the airport.

'Nico's mother is going to meet you at the airport in Rome,' Ben's mother says. 'Be good, Ben.'

On the plane, Ben is sitting next to a girl. She smiles at Ben.

'Hi,' the girl says. 'My name is Lizzie.'

'I'm Ben.'

'Are you going to Rome for a holiday?' Lizzie asks.

'No, I'm going to watch the Italy-England match.'

'Have you got your tickets?' Lizzie asks.

'My friend Nico has them,' Ben answers. 'He lives in Rome.'

Lizzie smiles again. 'I'm going to the match too. I'm going with my friend Max. He's English, but he lives in Italy. He's going to meet me at the airport.'

'Have you got your tickets?' Ben asks.
